DINNER TO MR. BAYARD.

The Royal Societies' Club of London

Gives the Ambassador a Farewell. The one hundred and fifty persons who to me. assembled last evening in London at the dinner which the Royal Societies' Club gave to the United States ambassador, Mr. Thomas F. Bayard, "upon his retirement from the court of St. James," included Sir Clements Markham, president of the club. and also president of the Royal Geographleal Society: the Archbishop of Canter-Marquis of Lorne, the lord chief justice of England, Baron Russell of Killowen, the Very Rev. Samuel Reynolds Hole, dean of Rechester, the Very Rev. Albert Basil Wilberforce, canon of West-minster, the Rt. Hon. James Bryce, Lleut. Com. W. S. Cowles, the United States naval attache; J. R. Carter, secretary of the United States embassy, Sir Donald Smith, the Canadian high commissioner; Mr. Howard Potter of Brown, Shipley & Co., and

Col. Ralph Vivian.

Mr. Bayard sat between Sir Clements
Markham and the Marquis of Lorne.

Throughout the dinner the band of the Coldstream Guards played, the music including many American airs.

Sir Clements Markham, president of the club, in proposing a toast in honor of Mr. Bayard, said that true ties between Great Britain and the United States had been established, and cordial friendships never to be forgotten had been formed between Americans and Englishmen. Ambassador Bayard was loudly cheered Ambassador Bayard was loudly cheered when he rose to respond. In the beginning of his speech he alluded in general terms to the universality of science and the effect produced by Dr. Nansen's explorations and the writings by Capt. Mahan upon naval subjects. He referred to the importance of the rule of the road at sea, to come into operation next July. This, he said, was only the forerunner of greater things yet to be accomplished by agreements between nations. He made a direct allusion to the arbitration treaty, and inquired whether with this important measquired whether with this important measure and the matter of the rule of the road at sea settled, it could not be believed that all other differences could be disposed of by arbitration. This was followed by loud nd long-continued cheering.

Continuing, Mr. Enyard said:
"We have here in person the lord chief justice of England, Baron Russell of Killowen, the greatest living advocate of that great principle. I do not for one moment believe the greatest for one moment believe the great the spirit that moved him and anihas been received can long be delayed. It cannot be permanently ob-structed. It may be delayed, but it cannot be defeated."

These statements were also followed by cheering and scenes of enthusiasm. Con-tinuing, Mr. Bayard said:

"I leave you in peace, and I hope to learn that you are always at peace with the world. I have labored for a better understanding between the well-meaning men of both countries. I do not pretend to speak for others, for I am glad to say I am not for others, for I am giad to say I am not their accredited agent. I have always worn my colors in my cap. No one can doubt, then, if plain speaking can make them believe, that the real heart of the American people, for which alone I pre-tend to speak, is for a manly trust between the people of both countries."

The conclusion of Ambassador Bayard's address was followed by prolonged cheers.

The Archishop of Canterbury said in responding to Mr. Bayard's address:

"Ambassador Bayard has won the strong-est regard of the people of England. He represents the side of the American chareter most like our own. We feel that the

He then referred to the American ambas-He then referred to the American ambas-sador as "one who truly came as a mes-senger of peace;" one who, while he has in no way lessened the rights and position of a great republic, has found it consistent with the loftlest patriotism to bring two great nations close together."

In conclusion, Lord Chief Justice Russell

"There is not today, and I cannot see how there ever will be, just cause for quar-rel between the United States and Great Britain. Both nations being governed by the same principles, they ought not to al-low any interests to divide them in their work for humanity.

"My Bayard will take back with him the affection of many old and new friends, and the respect of those who are unacquainted with him, because of his straightforwardness, for this has earned for him the gratwhose opinion is worth valuing."

Prof. James Bryce, former president of the board of trade, also paid a high eulogy to Ambassador Bayard, and concluded with a strong argument in favor of the principles of arbitration.

BISHOP KEANE'S POSITION.

Dignities Bestowed Upon the Well-

Known Prelate. A special cable from Rome to the Philadelphia Press says: I have just seen Archbishop Keane of Washington and found him jubilant over the reception given him on him. The archbishop gave me an extended account of his reception by the pope.

Archbishop Keane made this statement: "The pope said to me: 'I am greatly shocked and grieved by these mischiefmakers. The idea that any one would try to put me in the position of disapproving the splendid service of Cardinal Satolli or of publicly disgracing you never occurred

"The change in the rectorship of the Washington university was submitted to me as purely pedagogical routine matter. I was astonished and indignant when I learned that mischief-makers had misrepresented the meaning of my act. I desire to denounce their statements and to give evidence of my love and esteem for you. My answer to your enemies will be a sub-stantial one. The policy of the holy see in America is unchanged."

In America is unchanged."

Soon after this conversation the pope conferred five dignities on Archbishop Keane in one day, making him archibishop of Damascus, assistant bishop to the throne, canon of the Cathedral of St. John of Latera, adviser to the propaganda and adviser to the College of Sacred Studies.

I know upon the highest authority that the pope intends this to be a warning to those who have been attacking Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland for the past few years. Archbishop Keane spoke with great warmth on the subject of his

with great warmth on the subject of his enemies in New York. "It is a remarkable thing." he said, "that when the so-called liberals are dominant in America no one is attacked by them, but when the so-called conservatives appear to have gained a victory the mischief bureau in New York suddenly starts into activity and the whole press of the country teems with abuse.

"Archbishop Ireland, one of the purest and noblest prelates in America, who is loved and admired by the pope for his zeal, ability and piety, has been outrageously vilified, and because I taught in Washington university that the truth of God's word was not inconsistent with facts revealed by science I was denounced as a heretic who had been rebuked by removal from offices.

"All these stories, originating in New York, are pure inventions of malign minds. I would be sorry to hold Archbishop Corrigan responsible for all that has been said or written by those who appear to be his friends, and I cannot be brought to be-lieve that he would consent to or authorize all of this mischievous work.

"Before I sailed from New York I called on the archbishop and he spoke quite plainly concerning a statement I had made for publication, condemning the breeders of mischief and slander. You will remember that Cardinal Rampolla had telegraphed in the pane's name protesting against false. in the pope's name protesting against false hoods about my removal circulated in the "Archbishop Corrigan referred to my statement printed in the newspapers and declared that forty-nine out of fifty priests in the New York diocese and the public generally would infer from my language concerning the bureau of mischief that I

"I replied simply that all I could say to the public was that my remarks referred to the same persons denounced in Cardinal

Rampolia's telegram."
That ended Archbishop Keane's pointed story. At the same time, if anybody in America has any idea that Archbishop Corrigan is without influence in Rome he is sorely mistaken. Every effort made to injure his prestige at the Vatican has helped him and many here believe that he will be the next American cardinal.

Funeral of Mrs. Kennedy.

The funeral service of the late Mrs. J. C. G. Kennedy took place at 2 o'clock today from her late residence, 1207 N street. Dr. Radcliffe and Dr. Paxton officiated. The remains were placed temporarily in Oak acter most like our own. We feel that the links which Mr. Bayard referred to bind us for ail time. They will always remind us that we are of one blood. Our art and our literature are also one. Nobody desires the prosperity of the United States

Hill chapel, to await the arrival of her way from California. The pallbearers were Gen. Wright, Gen. Vincent, Capt. Lamberton, Mr. Geer, Mr. J. D. Patten, Mr. Wm. B. Gurley and Mr. Wm. J. Miller.

AFFAIRS IN GEORGETOWN. Sudden Death of an Unknown Man

There was a sudden death yesterday afternoon on M street between 31st and 32d streets, and the victim lies at the station house today, unknown and up to noon unidentified. It is that of a colored man, in the vicinity of seventy years of age, and nothing to give the slightest clue to the identity of the deceased was found in his pockets. The man was walking on M street about 3 o'clockain the afternoon when he was seen to suddenly stop and fall. Almost before assistance could reach him he was dead. Death is supposed to have been due to apoplexy, and the coro-ner after viewing the remains gave a certificate of death due to natural causes. The body was removed to the morgue at the seventh precinct station, where it now

Arrested at Length.

Sonny Epps, a well known colored man, was arrested yesterday by the police of the third precinct, to answer to a charge of assault, preferred by Mary Hall, also colored. The assault occured on last Christmas eve in Boston, when Epps in a fight kicked her in the mouth and knocked her teeth cut. The man has been very successful in eluding arrest, and several times had a narrow escape from the clutches of the law. He has kept out of this section since the assault, knowing that the police were after him.

Well Attended. The second night of the three-day festival and supper, given by the ladies of the Congress Street M. P. Church, in the lecture room of the edifice, was well attended last evening, in spite of the weather conditions. There was plenty of amuseer conditions. There was plenty of amusement for all who attended. The various booths in the place were in charge of the following named ladies: Candy booth, Mrs. James Stake and Miss Emma Beale; flower booth, Miss Amelia Hutchins; fruit table, Mrs. Gaskins and Mrs. Hutchins; fancy table, Mrs. William Selby and Miss Hanimond; cake table, Mrs. Edmonston and Mrs. James King; ice cream table, Miss Ida Howes and Miss Bessie Clagett; support table. wiss has howes and Miss Bessie chigett, supper table, Mrs. Estler and Miss Emily Welch. The festival closes with tonight, and the ladies hope to realize a good sum for the church fund.

Accidental Shooting.

Amelia Carter, colored, whose home is it Maryland, near Glen Echo, was accidentally shot last evening in the hand, making a painful, though not dangerous wound. According to her story she was handling a revolver belonging to her husband, and did not know that it was loaded. She was about to place it on a table when the gun went off, and a 32-caliber bullet plowed its way through her hand. Her husband, who happened to be near the place, brought his wife to the city on the electric cars, and took her to the Emergency Hospital, where the wound was dressed.

Mr. A. F. Hassam of the United States geological survey, stationed at Muskogee, Indian territory, has returned to his camp Rev. Bishop H. Y. Satterlee will address the meeting for men only, to be held at St. John's Church, on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. A large attendance of men is hoped for, and will be most welcome.

THE BLOCKADING SQUADRON.

ast Night's Work Comprised Search Light Drill and Target Practice.

The weather yesterday at Charleston, S C., was not propitious for the vessels of the blockade fleet, though it suited admirably to the purpose of a blockade runner. No fugitive craft, however, attempted to run the gauntlet of the fleet guarding the entrance to the harbor and the big ships lay at anchor in the rain unable to engage in target or rowing practice as has been the daily custom of the men aboard the ships. The arrival of the other vessels. which have been ordered to join the fleet. which have been ordered to join the neet, was looked forward to with eagerness. Particularly so the dynamite cruiser Vesurius, which is to run the blockade. The monitor Amphitrite went up to the city at noon and took a position in the stream off the custom house.

Last night's work on board the fleet consisted of search light drills and target practice. The battle ship Maine and the walter B. Williams & Co., Aucts., 1 cruisers New York, Columbia and Marble-head took part in the drills. The search lights were flashed across the sea and every corner and cranny of the surrounding shore was explored by their rays. The target practice was with the eight-inch and four-inch guns.

First Sergt. Wagener and Privates Hardin and Seaman, who were hurt on the battle ship Maine by the premature explosion of a one-pound cartridge on a secondary battery, are all right. Wagener's hand ary battery, are all right. Wagener's hand is not so badly lacerated as was reported. Hardin's and Seaman's injuries consist only of flesh wounds and in a few days they will be able to be about their duties as if nothing had happened to them. Who is responsible for the accident will be learned in a few days, as an investigation has been ordered. The injured men from the Marblehead, who were sent to the Marine Hospital, are all doing well. Arangements have been concluded for a grand ball to be tendered the officials of the navy and the officers of the squudron on the 19th. The ball will be one of the most brilliant social affairs ever held in Charleston.

ARMOR PLATE REPORT

Criticism of Naval Officers' Employ-ment by Private Concerns.

Senator Chandler yesterday, from the committee on naval affairs, made a report in relation to armor plate. The main facts in the report have been published. It criticises the employment of naval officers, either retired or active, by armor plate concerns, and also criticises the allowing concerns, and also criticises the allowing of naval officers to become interested in patent processes used by the government. The question of various patents is discussed at length, coupled with the different contracts made by Secretaries Whitney, Tracy and Herbert, and the final conclusion of the committee is: "The committee believe that the government officials ought not to promote a mo-nopoly of the business of making armor nopoly of the business of making armor through patents issued to the use of combined manufacturers while using the power of the government to destroy patents held by foreigners." In discussing the price of armor plate, the report reviews the testimony taken before the committee and the report made by Secretary Herbert. It says: 'In examining the report of the Secretary, it is noticeable that in his efforts to be fair and just he resolves all doubt in favor of the companies, and gives to them liberal allowances where the facts are uncertain."

The Secretary reached $400 per ton as the price of armor, and the committee $300, but concludes that a fair average price should be between these amounts, but leaves the matter to be determined in the naval appropriation bill. The recommendations of the committee in closing are: "That the government should have the right to use all patents for discoveries made by its naval officers upon paying a reasonable compensation. fair and just he resolves all doubt in favo be made requiring the use of patents the inventor conveys to the United States the right to use such invention." And also that a government factory for armor plate, costing $1,500,000, should be provided. The other recommendations and conclusions have heretofore been published.

Report on Betancourt's Case.

The President has sent to the Senate a report from Secretary Olney relative to the arrest of Gaspar Betancourt, an American citizen, by the Spanish authorities at Havana. They show that on proterts made by Gen. Lee, the captain general turned over Betancourt to the civil courts, and that February 9 Gen. Lee telegraphed that Betancourt was at liberty.

The President also sent to the Senate a report by Secretary Olney in the case of M. F. Lopez, an American citizen, killed at Sagua is Grande, in Cuba. The secretary says the ex-parte evidence in possession of the department tends to above session of the department tends to show that while Lopez was visiting relatives, and in no way connected with the insurrection, he was arrested and soon after and in no way connected with the insur-rection, he was arrested and soon after killed by the troops, but so far as is known without charges, process or trial of any sort. The case is under investigation.

The Corona broke her tail shaft Saturday when she was 370 miles from Hall-fax, and had been in tow of the Knight Commander since Sunday evening. The disabled steamer encountered the Knight Commander Sunday and the captain of the latter offered to tow the disabled ship to New York, but the captain of the Corona objected and requested to be taken to Halifax. The Knight Commander captain finally agreed to this proposition, and the vesis arrived off that harbor at 3 o'clock, where they lay to till darkness. The Co-rona will be compelled to discharge part of her cargo of cotton before repairs can be made, and it is thought she will remain port about a month.
